Our commitment to making a positive community impact

Corporate social responsibility is an integral part of who we are as an organization.

While our products help improve people’s living conditions by giving them thermal comfort, affordable heating and cooling, increased fire resilience and acoustic comfort, we also have a continued focus on our social performance.

For ROCKWOOL, this means making a positive difference in each of our North American communities of operation. We do this by setting ambitious targets and integrating social, societal and health and safety considerations into our daily business. We’re proud to continue to invest in infrastructure and programs that support the well-being and prosperity of the communities where we live and work.

“Our commitment to making a positive community impact is an integral part of who we are as an organization. We value the communities we are a part of. That’s why we’re dedicated to supporting initiatives and organizations that align with our purpose.

“ROCKWOOL’s support of students in need here in Halton has been tremendous. I also know that they’ve given a great deal of support to other community organizations such as the hospital and the United Way.”
